A Word About Personal Hygiene

Good hygiene is more than just looking neat and clean. Good hygiene practices can reduce the spread of disease.

Here are some things to do to maintain good personal hygiene habits.

Handwashing

Handwashing remains the single most effective way to reduce the spread of germs that may cause illnesses. Good handwashing, practiced frequently, can reduce illness and can remove dirt which may contain toxins such as lead.

Your skin is the first line of defense against potentially dangerous microorganisms entering the body. So if you are required to wash your hands frequently, use a moisturizing cream between washing.

CAUTION

EYE IRRITANT

Avoid contact with eye. Do not ingest.

FIRST AID

EYES: Flush with water for 15 minutes then seek medical attention.

INGESTION: Induce vomiting. Give large quantities of water or milk. If vomiting occurs, keep airways clear and give fluids again.
